SUDLER HAS ONE MONTH TO LIVE

No Delay in Fixing Date of Death for Negro who Killed Young Farmer. Will be Hanged at Westminster Jail.

The last link in the tragedy, enacted at the farm of William F. Brown, below Littlestown on New Year's night, when Solomon Sudler shot and killed the young farmer, will take place at Westminster on Friday, April fourteenth, when the negro will be hanged.

Governor Harrington, of Maryland, has notified Sheriff Stoner, of Carroll county, that he has fixed that date. Maryland still clings to hanging as the method of carrying out the death penalty, and follows the old system of having murderers executed in the courtyards of the county jail in which the prisoner was confined. It will be Carroll county's first execution for many years.

The murder of William Brown, well and favorably known by his relatives and friends here—is still fresh in the minds of the people of Gettysburg and the county. It was attended by many unusual features. First it was supposed by all concerned, and generally believed by others acquainted with the facts, that the blow which caused Mr. Brown's death was struck with an axe. Later, after Sudler's capture at Cumberland, he said that he had struck his employer with a cobblestone. Only a few days before the trial the body of the murdered man was exhumed and it was found that a quantity of shot was lodged at the base of the skull and persons recalled hearing the report of a gun the night of the murder.

Sudler's capture was effected some days after the murder and a reward of $500 was paid the police in Cumberland for making the arrest. His return to Baltimore and subsequently to Westminster was accomplished without any scenes of mob violence such as too eager correspondents had pictured were threatened, and the trial was speedily accomplished, though the prisoner was given every consideration. It required but a half hour for the three judges who tried the case to arrive at a verdict, after a trial lasting a day and a half.

The verdict was secured on February 15 and the date of hanging is accordingly just one day less than two months later. Barring anything intervening—which is scarcely probable—Sudler's execution will take place only three and a half months after his commission of the crime.

Clair Beard, the eight year old son of Foster Beard, received a broken collar bone and possibly internal injuries this morning when a heavy wagon containing twelve children on their way to Fairplay school passed over his chest. Since the burning of the Pitzer school a number of the children are taken every day to Fairplay. This morning one of the boys decided to walk along side of the wagon and, in getting out, accidentally knocked off little Clair. He fell and the wagon went over him, inflicting the injuries indicated. He was taken home and a physician was called. It will be several days before it is known fully how badly he is hurt.

BOHEMIAN GIRL SCORES HEAVILY

Miss Allan Appears in Gettysburg for Third Time and is Well Received. Supporting Company First Class.

Gettysburg was given its first opportunity to enjoy grand opera when the beautiful "Bohemian Girl" was produced Thursday evening under the direction of the Aborn management. It proved a most delightful treat and the event was given the support it richly deserved.

Miss Edith Allan, who first appeared in Gettysburg seven years ago in "The Village Parson", and later in "Patsy in Politics", sang the part of Arline, "The Bohemian Girl". Miss Allan's charming stage personality, and the pure and sweet qualities of her voice, won for her again the favor of her audience, many of whom remembered when she first appeared here in former years, and when it was freely prophesied that her advancement into better and more pretentious work was assured. The audience would have enjoyed more of "I Dreamt that I Dwelt in Marble Halls" as sung by Miss Allan and she was most acceptable in her other solos and duets.

George W. Dunstan, father of Arline sang his difficult part to the entire satisfaction of the most critical, and he scored specially in "The Heart Bowed Down." Henry Taylor, the Thaddeus of the company, possesses a mellow tenor voice, which pleased, but he at times failed to enter into the dramatic spirit of the opera and this detracted somewhat from his work.

The supporting company throughout was excellent and the ensemble numbers were beautifully given. Stage settings and costumes were all that could have been expected. The Tzigani whirlwind aerobats gave an exhibition in the street fair scene in the second act which brought forth an enthusiastic response.

The company plays Hanover this evening.

SMYSER AND HIS FAMILY ESCAPED

Well Known Army Man, his Wife and Children. Have Thrilling Experience in Thursday's Raid by Villa.

Captain Rudolph Smyser, of Troop H., United States Cavalry, formerly of York, and his wife and children, were in the thick of the attack on Columbus, New Mexico, by Villa and his bandit army Thursday morning, and all had narrow escapes from the bandits. Captain and Mrs. Smyser both have friends in Gettysburg.

The Smyser home was surrounded on three sides by bandits, but not a shot was fired. Captain Smyser managed to get his family into a barn in the rear of the house, just as the bandits broke into the house and looted it. They were preparing to set fire to the barn when the American troops opened fire. The bandits fled and the Smyers escaped harm by a narrow margin. Captain Smyser joined his troop later.

He is a son of Mrs. Lewis E. Smyser, of York, whose late husband was a prominent lumber dealer. He is a brother of Paul E. Smyser, prominent in the Sons of Veterans of York and a brother-in-law of Joseph R. Stravbridge, Esq. Captain Smyser has been in almost continual service in the United States army since the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. He has seen considerable Filipino service, was stationed at various western forts and has always been considered one of Uncle Sam's best men.

In a telegram to his mother he says: "Lost everything. All safe. Family goes to Leavenworth to-morrow."

ALL FINED

College Boys Swell Funds in Chambersburg Borough Accounts.

For disorderly conduct six juniors from Gettysburg College, members of the class basketball team, have paid fines of $3.43 each to the Chambersburg borough treasury, while the driver of the automobile they occupied paid $12. The team played in Waynesboro Tuesday evening and the "Record" of that place says: "Chambersburg policemen followed them three miles from the town and procured the automobile license number and the names furnished by the occupants."

"These names," says the Record, "were Brown, Smith, etc., and were manifestly fictitious. The college players told the policemen that they did not know they were passing through a town when they went through Chambersburg and that they thought the policemen were boys."

BIG CHANGES IN HANOVER YARDS

Twenty Six Thousand Dollars to be Spent by Pennsylvania Railroad in Giving More Trackage.

The development of the freight business on the York, Hanover & Frederick branch of the Pennsylvania railroad is the cause of extensive improvements in the freight facilities to be made by the railroad company at Hanover.

The additional facilities, which will include a large addition to the freight warehouse, extension of warehouse sidings, platform, incline, crane and other improvements, will cost the Pennsylvania railroad about $26,000. They will just about double the railroad company's present freight facilities at Hanover.

Some of the material to be used in making the improvements, has arrived in Hanover, and the work will be started shortly. Probably one of the most important features is the extension of the yard sidings. In all, about 3,700 feet of new track will be laid in the yards. This will increase the yard tracks to nearly three times their present capacity. Considerable grading will be necessary before the new track can be put down.

The capacity of the freight warehouse will be increased about 85 percent by the erection of a large addition. A portion will be two stories in height the second floor to be used for office purposes. There will be a telegraph and a block station office and offices for the freight clerical force.

A 10-ton pillar crane with a concrete foundation, to be erected between the freight house and the new platform, and an incline, will be among the improvements to be made in the Hanover yards.

THE LAST SALE

Of The Spring Season

is scheduled for April 8, a little more than a month from now.

Advertising for it should appear at once—for this reason: If your neighbor, living within several miles, wants to buy a piece of machinery this Spring and he doesn't know what you are going to sell he will go to a sale where he has seen it advertised. He won't take the chance of waiting for your sale. If he does see the article he desires advertised, he in all probability, will wait for your sale. His bid will more than pay for this advertising.

This is but one case, as a rule there are three or four similar instances occurring at each sale—sometimes more. There is no necessity for the man having sale the last of March to advertise continuously until the date of sale, but his advertisement should be prepared and appear at least once without delay.

The secret of a good sale is good advertising. The Times will help you prepare your advertising and advise you honestly what you need. We are not here to take your money but to be of service. In addition to the service our experience enables us to give, we offer the advantage of 500 Cards free if your advertising amounts to $5.00 or over.

If you Sale has not been Advertised.

Bring it in without delay.

VILLA OUTLAWS RAID U. S. TOWN

Kill Men, Women and Soldiers in Columbus, N. M.

MANY BANDITS SHOT DOWN

Driven Off by American Troopers
After Battle Lasting Hour and Half
Pursued Across Border Into Mexico

Columbus, N. M., March 10.—Nine civilians and seven United States soldiers were killed and a score wounded, in the sudden attack on this town by Villa and a large force of his bandits Thursday morning.

Before the Mexicans came here in tent on a wholesale massacre they had already captured three other Americans and hanged them, a total of nineteen dead, civilians and soldiers.

The Mexicans, estimated to have been 500 to 1000 strong, swooped down upon the town while it was yet dark and the townsfolk asleep, came up through a wide ravine, leading from the border and skirting the edge of the camp of the Thirteenth United States Cavalry. They posted snipers at strategic points, began the attack by a fusillade of bullets that startled the sleeping residents and began to set fire to several buildings.

As the hotel guests and householders were routed out the snipers picked them off in the streets. The sound of the firing was heard in the camp of the Thirteenth Cavalry and Lieutenant Castelman turned out his men. There were only two troops of them and though greatly outnumbered, they rushed into the town and engaged the Mexicans.

The battle lasted an hour and a half in the glow of the flames from the burning buildings. The railroad station, the customs house, the Central Hotel and the Hoover Hotel were the first places which the Mexicans attacked. Then they set fire to other frame buildings.

The occupants of these buildings armed themselves and fired back at the bandits from every possible vantage point. The United States soldiers charged the Mexicans and finally succeeded in driving them back until Villa's bugles began sounding the retreat.

Half an hour later the town was cleared of the Mexicans, who fire across the border, pursued by the cavalrymen and citizens who had joined them. The troops took up the pursuit determined to bring Villa back dead or alive.

In the meantime the persons remaining in the town began to take a count of the losses. They gathered together the bodies of twenty-four Mexicans in and around Columbus and burned them. Later other bodies were brought in and it was thought that more than fifty and perhaps 100 Mexicans had been killed in the battle and the pursuit from the town.

Colonel Herbert J. Slocum, the commander of the Thirteenth, was fired at by a sniper as he ran out of his quarters. The bullet knocked his pistol from his hand.

A. L. Ritchie, proprietor of the Central Hotel, was killed as he ran out of the burning building. With him was shot down W. R. Walker, who was a guest there with his wife, both delegates to the state convention of Sunday schools. Walker was taken from the arms of his wife by one of the bandits who invaded the hotel and told her, despite her cries and pleas for mercy, that he wanted her husband to step downstairs and shake hands with his captain. Walker left his wife and a moment later she heard the shots that killed him and Ritchie.

C. C. Miller, owner of a drug store, was shot as he tried to enter the door of the Hoover Hotel. A woman dragging a little girl by the hand and fleeing for safety was wounded and stumbled over the body of Miller. Inside the Hoover Hotel, through which shots flew, W. C. Hoover and his wife and two children, and other women and children hid cowering behind the adobe buildings while the bandits went shrieking through the surrounding streets. They escaped within the customs house. A. L. Riggs, custom inspector, barricaded himself and his wife and two children behind mattresses on the floor, and J. Jager, station agent of the El Paso and Southern railroad, did the same with his wife and two children on the second floor of the station. Both places were early targets of the bandits, but the inmates escaped injury.

J. S. Dean, a merchant, met death by calling out of his house into the street by a bandit who spoke in excellent English. Dean's reply in English was met by a bullet. Another American was offered the same enticement, and met it by killing the invader. In the pale light of dawn when a few quick flashes of pistol shots were visible this American pointed out half a dozen dead raiders who lay in the street.

When Colonel Slocum's troopers began pressing the bandits southward Villa is said to have fled and to have been among the first to lead the way back across the border. As the bandits retreated a chauffeur driving an automobile with an El Paso license was killed; Mr. and Mrs. Wilton James were added to the list of dead and a mile west of here the bandits killed J. S. Moore. Troop G, stationed at the border, caught the retreating Mexicans on the flank and killed eighteen of them. Corporal Wiswall of Troop G, was shot through the right eye and killed and Lieutenant Beson was wounded.

Major Lindsey, stationed at Gilsbo, ranch, sent three troops of cavalry across the border to reinforce Major Tompkins, who crossed into Mexico in pursuit of the raiders. From Deming came Lieutenant Glyce Ely, with twenty men of the New Mexico guard, to join the federal troops. A squad of cavalry is on the way from Fort Bliss.

The information that Villa and his chief lieutenant, Pablo Lopez, were in personal command of the raid was furnished to Colonel Slocum by a Mexican rancher who was made a captive during the raids of the bandits on Sunday and who escaped during the fighting.

Colonel Lopez is reported to have been killed in the battle and that his body was the topmost one to be piled on the heap of corpses that was burned on the prairie just outside the town.

The informant who tells of Villa's command of the raiders says that before ordering the advance on Columbus Villa declared that his slogan was "Death to Americans" and added: "The killing of Americans was just because citizens of the United States were responsible for the wretched conditions in Mexico. The United States intends to swallow Mexico. Let us do what we can to make it stick in their throats."

ASK CARRANZA LEAVE TO PURSUE BANDITS

Lansing Notifies Him of Columbus Invasion.

Washington, March 10.—Secretary Lansing announced that the United States was considering asking General Carranza for permission to send American troops into Mexico to capture the Villa bandits who raided Columbus, N. M.

Secretary Lansing said that if permission were asked it would be for this occasion only, and that the troops would be withdrawn when they had accomplished their purpose.

The United States sent a formal notification of the Columbus massacre to General Carranza through American Consul Silliman.

A despatch from General Pershing forwarded to the war department through General Funston, stated definitely that the Mexican raiders were commanded by Villa personally.

At the state department it was said the situation was "very serious," but that no announcement of what action could be taken would be announced until all official investigation was concluded.

It was said at the White House "vigorous steps would be taken to punish the bandits."

The Mexican question broke out in congress. Senator Fall, of New Mexico, announced he had prepared a resolution to authorize recruiting of an army of 500,000 to intervene in Mexico and aid the existing authorities in stamping out brigandage, while in the house Representative Mondell, Republican, of Wyoming, started debate with a speech attacking the administration's Mexican policy.

While the policy of the administration so far has been to look to the Carranza forces to deal with the bandits, some officials said it was a grave question whether such a raid as that on Columbus was not sufficient evidence of the inability of the Carranza government to deal with the situation, to warrant sending American troops over the line.

FRENCH HURL BACK ATTACKS

Paris Announces Repulse of Foe on Both Sides of Meuse.

GERMANS CLAIM VAUX FORTS

Berlin Says Invaders Captured Village and French Claim They Were Repulsed—Terrific Artillery Duel Continues.

London, March 10.—Fierce attacks have been renewed by the Germans on the Verdun front, to the east and to the west of the Meuse river and have been repulsed by the French troops the war office at Paris announced.

The statement says the Germans were repulsed between Douaumont and the village of Vaux after several heavy attacks accompanied by intense artillery fire and violent infantry assaults. The statement adds the attackers were completely defeated after having penetrated the village of Vaux.

On the Verdun sector west of the Meuse the French have repulsed repeated attacks on the village of Bethincourt.

The German war office in Berlin declares the village and armored fort of Vaux, which lies northeast of Verdun, have been captured by the Germans.

The announcement says that in addition to the village and fort of Vaux numerous adjoining fortified positions were captured. The assault was made in the night by Posen reserve regiments.

The official French report, although admitting the Germans temporarily penetrated the village of Vaux, does not mention the fortress. Unofficially some time ago said this fort had been demolished by German artillery. It is about two miles south east of Douaumont, where the Germans gained their first important success capturing that fort. Verdun lies five miles west of the fort of Vaux. The capture of the latter represents a gain of about a quarter of a mile for the Germans.

The Berlin war office admitted the loss of a trench to the French at Maisons de Champagne, in the Champagne district.

An important check was delivered by the French in the German progress west of the Meuse when the greater part of the Bois des Corbeaux (Forest of Cows), southwest of Bethincourt, which the Germans penetrated the day before, was recovered, the Germans retaining only the eastern part of the wood.

It is at this point that the German attack drove a wedge into the French line between Le Mort Homme (Dead Man) and the Cote de Poie (Goose Hill).

To the east of the Meuse the French lost the Hardamont redoubt, which is just east of the Douaumont fort. This redoubt was taken by the French Tuesday, and was recaptured by assault by the Germans.

Military observers express the belief that the Germans originally intended a frontal attack on Verdun, which was to be accompanied by two flank attacks, one in the Woevre and the other on the west bank of the Meuse which might develop into the main attack. Desiring, however, to justify a premature announcement of the capture of Douaumont the German Crown Prince, Frederick William kept 200,000 men on the right bank of the river, against the advice of his generals, who insisted that they could be better employed on the other bank. Now that the Germans have begun the flank attack the French critics say it is too late by ten days.

Artillerymen on both sides are living up to the reputation already established for the battle of Verdun as the greatest artillery duel of the war. Many sectors of the French front on Sunday and Monday last received an average of 100,000 shells in twelve hours. Whole woods were reduced to kindling material. The little river at Forges disappeared altogether, having been dammed in half a dozen places and thirty feet of the crest of Hill 213 near Forges was blown away.

The German losses in officers is particularly heavy, according to statements made by prisoners, and this fact is believed to be the explanation of the unexpected spectacle of German officers up to the rank of general, by orders of the emperor, leading their men into action, instead of following them.

GERMANY DECLARES WAR ON PORTUGAL

Seizure of Ships Leads to an Open Break.

Berlin, March 10.—Germany has declared war on Portugal, according to an announcement by the semi-official Overseas News agency.

The declaration was made at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when the Portuguese minister received his passports.

The document given to him and a similar one presented to the Portuguese government by the German minister at Lisbon, concluded with the words:

"The German government therefore considers herself from this time in war with the Portuguese government."

The German declaration, says the news agency, emphasizes the fact that this step was made necessary by the recent illegal seizures of German ships in Portuguese ports, which is the gravest sort of breach of neutrality and of special treaties. Germany therefore is obliged to give up her former attitude of forbearance, which she had maintained because of Portugal's awkward situation.

The declaration enumerates a long series of breaches of neutrality by the Portuguese government.

These include the free passage to English troops through the colony of Mozambique, the permission given to English men-of-war to use Portuguese ports for a time exceeding that given neutrals; the permission given the English navy to use Madeira as a naval base; actual engagements between Portuguese and German troops on the frontier of German southwest Africa and Angola; frequent insults to the German nation by members of the Portuguese parliament, who never were reprimanded.

BABIES SMOTHERED IN BED

Two Children in Family Met Accidental Death by Suffocation.
Philadelphia, March 10.—Mrs. Anna Lewandowski, 4452 Edgemont street, Bridesburg, awoke to find her two babies, one a year old, the other five weeks lying apparently lifeless in the bed beside her.

Her screams brought her daughter, Florence. The girl summoned a physician, who said both babies were dead. It is believed that, accidentally slipping down under the bed coverings, they were smothered.

A third child met a similar death. She was Helen Veniti, six weeks old, 1718 Pierce street. The child was found dead under the covers in her cot by her mother. A physician pronounced the child dead from suffocation.

Breaking Iron With Water.
A simple way of breaking a mass of iron is explained by an engineer in a mass of iron, square and four feet long, he placed a perpendicular hole one inch in diameter, and between three and four inches deep. This he filled with water and closed with an accurately fitted iron bolt. One heavy blow on the bolt broke the mass into two pieces.

Hard Pine Floor.
A housekeeper who had a hard pine floor that needed treatment tried an experiment with it and found it satisfied. She knew that oak filler is supposed to be used only on oak flooring, but she used it on the hard pine after it had been rubbed smooth. The filler was of the dark oak that on the following day the floor was waxed. This made a rich-looking floor of a good shade of brown.

Why the Buffer?
After several weeks' debate on the water power bill, which every one admits cannot become a law, the question is asked why it has been kept so long before the senate. The idea seems to be that it is a buffer, but a buffer against what? Perhaps it is being used to exhaust the speaking powers of senators, so there will not be so much said on the military bills.

DEMOCRATS SURE TO NAME WILSON

That's the Only Safe Political Bet of the Season.

PRESIDENT WILL NOT RESIGN

All Kinds of Rumors Spread Over the Country, but Most of Them Are Groundless—Republicans Seem Up in the Air With Tendencies Toward Either Hughes or Burton.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, March 10. (Special.)—In the midst of the parliamentary conflicts and the talk of war it is hard to keep up an interest in politics. However, many remember that there is a presidential campaign approaching, and day by day we draw nearer the national conventions. There has been a disposition to mix the war talk with politics. That cannot be helped.

There have been all sorts of rumors regarding President Wilson. On one hand the statement that he would resign on account of his burdens and would refuse to be a candidate before the next democratic convention has been heard. On the other, that he has determined to stick on the job and is bearing his troubles with the greatest ease has been repeated.

After all the rumors and guesses and speculations it may be set down as one fixed fact that the president will not resign and another that he will be the candidate and the nominee.

Republicans in the Air.

The Republicans are still in the air. No one is ready to say positively that this or that man will be nominated. The nearest approach I have heard to a positive statement came from one of the most prominent men in the house, who a short time ago was rather vigorously opposing Hughes. He said that the Republican ticket would be Hughes and Burton or Burton and Hughes.

Thus with one fell swoop he eliminated Weeks, Sherman, Cummins, Borah and half a dozen other possibilities. And he also eliminated the colonel, the one great uncertainty.

Gag Rule in the Senate.

Only on a motion to lay on the table, which is a negative proposition, does the gag rule work in the senate. This is the way it worked in the senate the day of the vote upon the amended Gove resolution. After there had been several sharp exchanges and Borah had referred to Aschurst as the "little gentleman from Arizona," the roll call proceeded until Stone attempted to explain his vote, saying:

"If the original resolution—"

"I object to any statement," interrupted Gallinger.

"I am explaining my vote," said Stone.

"The senator has no right to do it," replied Gallinger.

"I object," said Borah.

"Very well," said Stone. "On this resolution I—"

"I ask that the senator announce his vote," cut in Borah.

"Well," said Stone, trying to be calm. "I am not going."

"That is all the senator will do," again said Borah.

"The senator from Idaho," said Stone hotly, "is not authorized to say what I will or what I will not do."

"If the senator from Idaho is going to be gagged," roared Borah, "the entire senate will be gagged. If we are going to be intellectual slaves singly we will be so in a body."

There was something more, but in the old Stone had to content himself by trying to table the resolution.

Twenty Cents a Mile.

The same old fight on congressional mileage was made this year, and the same old rate of 20 cents a mile remains in the air.

The same old charges of graft, of members voting to abolish the mileage and going to the senate to have it retained and all the other claptrap that has been heard for years was repeated, but the result was just the same.

Through the Colonel's Glasses.

Shortly before Colonel Roosevelt sailed away for tropical seas Champ Clark called upon him. In the course of the conversation they talked of Wilson and Bryan. At the mention of the latter's name Champ said rather viciously:

"When that fellow's name is mentioned I see red."

"Pink, Mr. Speaker, pale pink," interposed the colonel softly.

Why the Buffer?

After several weeks' debate on the water power bill, which every one admits cannot become a law, the question is asked why it has been kept so long before the senate. The idea seems to be that it is a buffer, but a buffer against what? Perhaps it is being used to exhaust the speaking powers of senators, so there will not be so much said on the military bills.

Recognized, but Not Appreciated.

"Homestead" Rucker of Missouri dipped into a debate in the house and was soon in a controversy with the universal tanager, Jim Mann. Rucker was finally moved to remark:

"I want it understood that I recognize the wonderful, almost phenomenal services of the gentleman from Illinois, but I do not always appreciate them."

A Stumbling Block.

There will never be quite a universal feeling of Christian brotherhood so long as men named Smith receive letters with a notation on the corner, "Opened by mistake, Johnson."

12 MAY BE DEAD IN MINE BLASTS

Slope of Wilkes-Barre Shaft
Filled by Explosions.

RESCUERS ARE HEMMED IN

Went Cut Off by Ignition of Timbers.
Hope of Saving All Has Been Abandoned.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 10.—A series of explosions which ignited timbers and filled the No. 6 slope of the No. 2 Hollenbeck mine of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal company, caused the death of several miners. The dead are estimated at from nine to twelve men.

With the main gangway of the slope filled with smoke and fire, mine officials have been unable to reach the chambers in which a dozen men were at work, and while only one body had been removed, the general belief is that the others have suffocated from smoke.

There were a series of what seemed to be minor explosions on the No. 6 slope. It is said that a series of rescuers was rushed into the gangway and that other explosions which followed ignited timbers and filled the mine with smoke, leaving them practically shut off from aid.

Mine officials called out a large force of rescue men and set them to work fighting the fire. Smoke was so dense and so dangerous that but little progress was made. Early reports from the headquarters of the company were that the extent of the accident was unknown to them and four hours after the rescue work started the body of only one man had been found.

Men working behind the point where the body was found were thought at first to have had some chance of escape, but as the rescuers pushed on through the dense columns of smoke hopes for the welfare of the others was abandoned.

The inability of company officials to announce the extent of the accident caused crowds of people to gather about the colliery. Orders came from Mine Manager C. F. Huber to keep all persons, save those actually engaged in the rescue work and officials of the company, outside of the colliery yards. When this order was enforced wild rumors were started as to the extent of the accident.

Company physicians and surgeons were called to the company's yards. Undertakers were summoned to be on hand and the arrival of ambulances and wagons only served to arouse the interest of hundreds of people and the families of those who were at work in the mine.

At the office of Superintendent Huber it was asserted that the fire probably was caused by the naked light of some of the miners coming in contact with the timbers or by touching off a small pocket of gas.

DYNAMITE WORKER'S HOME

Three Other Homes Menaced as Result of Strike in Colliery.

Scranton, March 10.—The front of the home of Michael Belasch, at Greenwood, was blown away by dynamite, the explosion being set off, it is alleged, by members of an industrial organization in revenge for Belasch, a miner, going back to work in Greenwood colliery, where members of the organization have been on a strike three weeks. The family of Belasch narrowly escaped death.

Wives of the striking men made attacks on men going to work and guards had to drive them off.

Czernowitz in Panic.

London, March 10.—A Central News despatch from Petrograd states that panic reigns in Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, and that the inhabitants are fleeing in fear of a Russian attack against the city. The Germans are reported to have ordered the removal of all provisions and stores.

Mother Suffocates Child.

Lancaster, Pa., March 10.—Falling asleep in a chair with her four-year-old infant in her arms, Mrs. Clarence Leleoy, of Ephrata, awoke to find the child dead. The mother had accidentally suffocated the baby while she slept.

Says French Lost 80,000.

Berlin, March 10.—Major Morath, military expert of the Vossische Zeitung, estimates that the French losses in the fighting around Verdun total between 70,000 and 80,000. He says more than 20,000 French soldiers have been made prisoners.

Picked for Delaware's Federal Attorney. Washington, March 10.—Charles P. Curley, of Wilmington, has been selected by President Wilson for United States district attorney for Delaware. His nomination will go to the senate within a few days.

Votes to Take Up Armor Plant Bill. Washington, March 10.—The senate by a vote of fifty-five to ten decided to give its attention next to Senator Tillman's bill appropriating $11,000,000 for establishing a government armor plate plant.

Truly a Success. "Was your bachelor's supper a success?" "A success! Wonderful! Why, we had to postpone the wedding for two days."—Life.

$100,000 FIRE IN PITTSVILLE

Slater Building, occupied by Theatre and Business Houses, Destroyed. Pittsville, March 10.—A $100,000 fire destroyed the Slater estate building, on North Centre street.

For a time the high northwest wind threatened to cause the destruction of the heart of the town, as flaming embers were carried a half mile to house tops, causing numerous slight fires.

The Slater building was occupied by the Garden moving picture theatre, clothing stores of Spiker Brothers and Rouse & Rosenzweig, two eating houses and another small store, while six dwelling houses on Railroad street, in the rear, were ruined by fire and water.

The cause is unknown. About seventy-five per cent of the loss is covered by insurance.

U. S. CONSCIENCE FUND GETS $30,000

Phila. Date on Letter Mailed in New York.

Washington, March 10.—A $30,000 contribution to the treasury's conscience fund, the largest ever received, came by mail in a registered package mailed in New York.

Under separate cover came a letter, unsigned, dated Philadelphia, but mailed in New York, which announced the sending of $30,000 and explained that the sender had restored to the government $80,000 in all.

The money came in a strong linen envelope and was wrapped in a layer of thick brown paper. There were eighty-five $100 bills, twenty-one $500 bills and eleven $1000 bills. Most of them gold certificates.

The letter that accompanied the contribution read as follows:

"In a separate package I am sending you $30,000 to be added to the conscience fund. This amount makes a sum aggregating $80,000 which I have sent the United States, or four times the amount which I stole years ago. I have hesitated about sending all this money because I think it does not really belong to the government, but conscience has given me no rest until I have consummated the fourfold return, like the publican of old. May every thief understand the awfulness of the sin of stealing is the sincere wish of a penitent."

TURK SEAPORT FALLS

Rizeh, Thirty-five Miles East of Trebizond, Captured by Russians.

Petrograd, March 10.—Russian troops, in their advance on Trebizond, along the Black sea coast, have captured the town of Rizeh, thirty-five miles east of the former place, according to official announcement.

According to recent despatches from Sebastopol, the Turkish coast defenses along the Black sea are crumbling up before the intensity of the bombardment of the Russian warships. There is apparently a growing disposition on the part of the Turks along the Anatolian shore to surrender without fighting.

Over Million in Auto Tags.

Harrisburg, March 10.—The state receipts from automobile license passed the $1,300,000 mark, which is considerably ahead of the payments to this date last year.

Fear Steamship Was Mined

Copenhagen, March 10.—A Christiania despatch to the Politiken says the Norwegian steamship Memona and several other vessels bound from England for Norway, are missing. It is feared they have been sunk by mines.
